Sanaüja (Lleida) 1938 - Sant Just Desvern (Barcelona) 2021

Joan Margarit is considered by critics, writers and readers as one of the most important contemporary authors in Spain and, without doubt, as the most international of Catalan poets. His literary work, which has won several awards and has been translated into several languages, includes 17 volumes, 11 anthologies, an essay and some memoirs, and is very consistent with themes such as the passage of time, history, language, identity, and love.

The author's growing interest in the theme of the passage of time, which became noticeable as Margarit reached middle age, is becoming more important in his mature works and, as he himself refers to it, his senility. In spite of the forceful tone of his verses, not allowing for complacency, and the recurrent images with which the poet often evokes the so-called 'narrative of decline', Joan Margarit's late poetry offers a "luminous" vision, as his translators have pointed out, which is in fact intimately connected to an integrating perception of old age.

In the context of this project, the most recent collections of Joan Margarit (specifically, those published in the last ten years) have been studied, as well as his essay New Letters to a Young Poet. Considering literary gerontology, it has been possible to demonstrate that Margarit's late poetry presents old age as a complex phase of personal growth and the culmination of identity, in which love, loneliness and loss acquire another meaning. Through the particular analysis of the essay on his poetics it is possible to observe how life experience and skills acquired with age are integrated into a new form of knowledge, and generate a type of moral wisdom in the poet from which younger generations, whether writers or not, can benefit.

QUOTES FROM MARGARIT'S POETRY:

a) Visión más allá de la muerte:

Del poema "Després" (de Mysterious feliz, p 31)

Llum de la soledat incompetent:

enfocaràs un escenari buit

il·luminant el meu final feliç.

La meva alegria sense mi.

b) Sobre la poesía en el presente:

De Des d'on tornar a estimar (p95):

Aquests poemes busquen des d'on tornar a estimar.

I tornes a la taula,

on el poema continua.

És aquí, amb tu.

c) La identidad y el paso del tiempo:

"Ser el que dius" (p71)

...

Ho has construït al teu entorn.

T'ha protegit i t'ha aïllat.

Dels fonaments bastits amb l'admiració

Sota els murs de la teva poesia,

No te n'avergeonyeixis: són segurs.

Van fer patir l'infant. El vell ja no.

d) Reafirmación en la vejez:

De Misteriosament feliç:

"Restaurar" (p29)

Sóc vell i no vull ser reconstruït.

Conec la meva fosca, les torxes i les braces:

No hi ha més claredat que la del propi foc.

e) El amor, una sorpresa, otra vez:

No era lluny ni difícil

"El que em sosté" (p91)

L'amor, quan m'he fet vell,

encara m'ha sorprès:

com entrar en un casino

buit i fosc on, de sobte

s'han encès tots els llums.

f) La pérdida, revisitada:

De Misteriosament feliç:

*Comprenc que són els morts
els qui donen sentit
a aquesta soledat (p 34)*

...

*perquè les pèrdues
- com fan les llàmpades en una cambra - donen vida a la [s]eva intimitat (p 83)*

g) La sabiduría, al fin:

De Un hivern fascinant (del último poema publicado, a día de hoy)

He vist els grans voltors damunt d'un mar de boira.

Però res no ha acabat, i no sé de cap pèrdua.

Què era el que posseïa?

No puc jugar amb la por com quan era un infant.

Ja sóc al fons del bosc de tots els contes,

Somrient i feliç de no ser jove.

Sabent que, quan s'ha obert,

una esquerda no es torna a tancar mai.
